

Relationships and Sexuality Education (RSE) Policy

TON YR YWEN PRIMARY SCHOOL

Introduction

This policy has been prepared in accordance with:

- The Education Act 1996
- Equalities Act 2010
- RSE Code and guidance 2021
- Advice has been sought from the Local Authority Advisory Service.

Links with other policies

The RSE policy links to the following:

- RVE Policy

In Ton Yr Ywen Primary School, we aim to provide children with the knowledge, skills and experiences they need to lead confident, healthy, independent lives and to become informed, active and responsible citizens. Relationships and Sexuality Education (RSE) is a core part of this development and forms a part of our wider Curriculum provision by providing children with an understanding of healthy and respectful relationships and appropriate boundaries. We consider effective RSE to be a fundamental part of our approach to supporting pupils to grow into confident, caring, responsible and respectful young citizens.

RSE is taught within the health and well-being area of learning and experience. In addition, some aspects of the RSE programme will be covered through:

- Science and Technology area of learning
- Circle times
- Assembly
- Class Stories
- PE in the context of health and hygiene

RSE is a lifelong learning about personal, physical, moral, and emotional development. It encourages children and young people to develop and form positive values, attitudes, personal and social skills, and increase their knowledge and understanding of how to make informed decisions and life choices.

What is RSE?

RSE is a positive and protective part of the Curriculum for Wales. It plays a central role in supporting learners' rights to enjoy fulfilling, healthy and safe relationships throughout their lives. Central to the curriculum for Wales is an aspiration for every child and young person to achieve the four purposes of the curriculum.

A rights and equity based RSE curriculum helps ensure that all learners can develop an understanding of how people's faith, beliefs, human rights and cultures are related to all aspects of RSE and how these rights can contribute to the freedom, dignity, well-being and safety of all people. As a school, we discuss RSE in the context of the Rights protected by the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child.

RSE supports learners to develop the knowledge, skills and values to understand how relationships and sexuality shape their own lives and the lives of others. Learners will be equipped and empowered to seek support on issues relating to RSE and to advocate for self and others.

RSE is a mandatory requirement in the curriculum for Wales for all learners from age 3 to 16. This means that all learners must receive this education. There is no right to withdraw from RSE.

Vision for our RSE curriculum

The vision for Relationships and Sexuality Education at our school consists of 10 key aspects that we aim to promote and develop with our pupils. This is to:

- Provide a consistent standard of relationships, sexuality, and health education across the school
- Help pupils develop feelings of self-respect, confidence and empathy
- Promote responsible behaviour; Including both online and offline behaviours
- Create a positive culture of communication around issues of relationships
- Teach pupils the correct vocabulary to describe themselves and their bodies
- Provide a framework in which sensitive discussions can take place
- Prepare pupils for puberty and give them an understanding of sexual development and the importance of health and hygiene
- Give pupils an understanding of reproduction and sexual development
- To provide all pupils with knowledge, skills and attitudes that will enable them to make positive and healthy choices concerning relationships as they grow up and deal with risk
- Combat exploitation and violence/abuse against women and men alike

Aims of our RSE curriculum

Our RSE curriculum is embedded within our Health and Well-being AOLE and is set out as per the Appendix. However, this will be adapted as necessary. We have and will continue to develop the curriculum considering the age, needs and feelings of pupils. If pupils ask questions outside the scope of this policy, teachers will respond in an age-appropriate manner, so they are fully informed and do not seek answers online. There are three national elements that the RSE curriculum is based on. These are;

- Relationships and identity
- Sexual health and well-being. (At a developmentally appropriate level)
- Empowerment, safety and respect

Within our school, in order to progressively teach these areas, we utilise the 'Jigsaw mindfulness PSHE' approach to delivering RSE within our school. This forms part of a wider delivery of Health and Well-being across the school. Where appropriate staff may also supplement the teaching through resources found on Hwb which are approved materials for schools to use in Wales. The aim of our RSE curriculum is to develop the three above elements through the following pupil friendly themes. This is done in a progressive way across the school.

- Being me in my world - covers a wide range of topics, including a sense of belonging, welcoming others, and being part of a school community, a wider community and a global community; it also looks at children's rights and responsibilities, working and socialising with others and pupil voice.

- Celebrating difference - focuses on similarities and differences and teaches about diversity such as disability, racism, power, friendships, and conflict; children learn to accept everyone's right to 'difference,' and most year groups explore the concept of bullying - what it is and what it isn't, including cyber bullying.
- Dreams and goals - aims to help children think about their hopes and dreams, their goals for success, what personal strengths are and how to overcome challenges via teamwork, skills and tasks. There is also a focus on enterprise and fund raising. Children learn about experiencing and managing feelings of pride, ambition, disappointment, success; and they get to share their aspirations, the dreams and goals of others in diverse cultures/countries and their dreams for the world.
- Healthy Me - covers two main areas of health: Emotional health. (Relaxation, being safe, friendships, mental health skills, body image, relationship with food, managing stress) and Physical health (eating a balanced diet, physical activity, rest and relaxation, keeping clean, drugs and alcohol, being safe, first aid) In order for children to learn that health is a very broad topic.
- Relationships - has a wide focus, looking at diverse topics such as families, friendships, pets and animals, and love and loss. A vital part of this theme is about safeguarding and keeping children safe; this links to cyber safety and social networking, as well as attraction and assertiveness; children learn how to deal with conflict, their own strengths and self-esteem. They have the chance to explore roles and responsibilities in families and look at stereotypes. All lessons are delivered in a developmentally appropriate way so that they meet children's needs.
- Changing me – deals with change of many types, from growing from young to old, becoming a teenager, assertiveness, self-respect and safeguarding. Self and body image, puberty, attraction and accepting change are diverse subjects for children to explore. Each year group thinks about looking ahead, moving year groups or the transition to secondary school. Life cycles and how babies are made and grow are treated sensitively and are designed to meet children's needs. All year groups learn about how people and bodies change. This theme particularly links with the Science and Technology AoLE when teaching children about life cycles, babies, and puberty.

These areas of learning are taught within the context of family life, taking care to ensure that there is no stigmatisation of children based on their home circumstances. (Families can include single parent families, LGBTQ+ parents, families headed by grandparents, adoptive parents, foster parents/carers amongst other structures, families for whom faith, spirituality and religion play a part, and for those that it doesn't) along with reflecting sensitively that some children may have a different structure of support around them, (for example: looked after children or young carers). In line with one of the core values of Ton Yr Ywen Primary School, and one of our school rules, children will at all times be taught to be respect other people as well as to respect things.

Roles and responsibilities

The Governing Body

The Governing Body will review the RSE policy and its arrangements and effectiveness on a regular basis.

The Headteacher

The Headteacher is responsible for ensuring that RSE is taught consistently across the school. The head teacher also:

- Ensures that members of staff are given ongoing high quality training and support, so that they can teach effectively and handle any difficult issues with sensitivity.
- Will provide an opportunity for parents to view / comment on the Policy and resources as part of the launch of our revised approach Autumn 2023
- Liaise directly with CSC and recommended faith leaders.

Health and Wellbeing Lead

The health and Well-Being lead is responsible for supporting the Headteacher in ensuring RSE is taught consistently across the school.

The Health and Well-Being lead must also:

- Ensure resources are readily accessible to support teaching and learning.
- Monitors this policy on a regular basis and reports to Governors on the effectiveness of the policy.

Staff

All staff are responsible for:

- Delivering RSE in a sensitive way
- Modelling positive attitudes to RSE
- Responding to the needs of individual pupils
- Monitoring and highlighting progress and coverage
- Making use of Jigsaw support resources in order to inform their teaching

Class teachers are responsible for teaching RSE at Ton Yr Ywen Primary School. Teachers will need to answer questions that may arise through the direct teaching of RSE, as well as those that may be asked at other times. All questions will be handled sensitively, sharing, where appropriate the recognition that not all faiths and cultures have the same perspective around the teaching of these explicitly RSE topics. RSE is legally required to be objective, critical and pluralistic – meaning schools and settings must provide factual information and on questions of values a range of views on a given subject that would be commonly held within society. Should staff feel unable to adequately answer a question posed by a pupil around any RSE topic, they will seek support from colleagues or approved faith and CSC advisors to allow them to appropriately respond to the pupil's questions /their class at the soonest convenience.

Staff do not have the right to opt out of teaching RSE. Staff who have concerns about teaching RSE are encouraged to discuss this with the Headteacher. Questions which teachers feel uncertain about answering should be discussed with a senior member of staff and answered at a later date.

Pupils

Pupils are expected to engage fully in RSE and when discussing issues related to RSE, treat others with respect and sensitivity. Pupils' views, as always, will be sought as part of our ongoing monitoring and planning for RSE within the school and this will be established through the usual channels already established within the school.

Parents and carers

The school is well aware that the primary role in children's RSE lies with our parents and carers. We wish to build a positive and supporting relationship with the parents of children at our school through mutual understanding, trust and cooperation. In promoting this objective, we:

- Will carry out our statutory duty to consult with parents and governors on the contents of this policy
- Inform parents about the school's RSE policy and practice
- Endeavour to answer any questions that parents and carers may have about the RSE delivered to their child; this includes providing opportunities for parents to view the resources that are used in lessons
- Take seriously any issue that parents raise with teachers or governors about this policy or the arrangements for RSE in the school

Right to withdrawal from RSE:

Parents and carers do not have the right to withdraw their child from RSE education. Any request to teachers or senior staff of this nature will not be approved. This is because every child has the right to access the full RSE curriculum in line with the RSE Code. The curriculum offered should be at a 'developmentally appropriate' level. This level will be determined by the class teacher, supported by the Health and well-Being AoLE Lead and Headteacher.

Developmentally Appropriate Teaching

The Welsh Government requires that RSE must be developmentally appropriate to each learner and all of the following factors will be considered when planning for this element of the Curriculum. As with all areas of learning teachers will determine the correct content for the pupils. In the case of RSE they will do this by referring first to the Appendix found in this policy. Next, they will consider what has already been taught to these children and what they majority need next in order to move forward. Alongside consideration of the learners age, knowledge and maturity, class teachers will also consider the developmental and learning needs of individual pupils in their class, as well as information specific to the pupils that has arisen during the school year. If teachers feel the content of the curriculum is not appropriate to a minority an alternative appropriate curriculum will be offered. RSE ensures young people have the right to access information that keeps them safe from harm. RSE is designed to safeguard all our children.

Whole School Organisation of RSE within our school

Our RSE curriculum will support and build on each learner's knowledge, skills and values in appropriate ways throughout their development and create safe and empowering environments which build on learners' experiences both within and beyond the educational setting providing positive alternatives to some learners' experiences.

Set out below are the key principles regarding how RSE is organised and embedded at our school:

- RSE is a part of a whole-school approach and effectively integrated and coordinated across the curriculum. Effective RSE requires specialist expertise, time and resource in which the school will regularly evaluate to ensure are in place. This will ensure a supportive environment is created to ensure learners and practitioners are safe to discuss and learn about issues which may be sensitive or challenging.
- RSE will be interdisciplinary and cross curricular in its approach to content, knowledge, an understanding and in the way it is explored. RSE is a broad and complex area that includes biological, social, psychological, spiritual, ethical and cultural dimensions that evolve over the lifespan.
- All practitioners contribute to the school's RSE priorities and professional learning is a key requirement for delivery of high quality RSE. As a school, we enable all practitioners to access learning that can support them to develop confidence and knowledge regarding our RSE.
- RSE will always be delivered in a way that is inclusive. This helps ensure that all learners can see themselves, their families, their communities and each other reflected across the curriculum, and can learn to value difference and diversity as a source of strength. This contributes to a cohesive, fair and equitable society that equips learners with skills for life.
- Provision draws on specialist services and expertise, and we engage with local communities. Our curriculum will always be mindful of the different perspectives and backgrounds within our local community.
- Our approach to RSE will be protective and preventative, considering how learners might need to be supported to:
 - understand and cope with change, conflicts and pressure;
 - have the knowledge to recognise discrimination and violence, including Violence against Women and Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence;
 - seek help and advice where appropriate.
- The teaching of RSE will respond to and be respectful of the lived experiences of learners. The approach to RSE involves recurring themes and topics which reinforce and build on the learners' developing understanding and changing needs and encourages learners to take increasing responsibility for their own learning. Practitioners recognise learners' social, physical, emotional and cognitive development and needs, as well as their evolving knowledge and experience.
- Progression in RSE is a continuous process aiming to improve overall learner well-being and safety and to realise the four purposes. As learners progress, they will build on previous learning: consolidating and strengthening the same dispositions; Knowledge and skills and applying them in new, relevant contexts.

Delivery of the RSE curriculum

Our Relationships and Sexuality Education programme will be delivered in a developmentally appropriate and sensitive manner by class teachers. Where classes vary in maturity, the class teacher will ensure that the content meets the needs of the majority of pupils in their class. Teaching is normally taught in mixed gender groups.

Relationship and Sexuality Education may occur at anytime during the school year. When it is taught will be dependant upon a number of factors including: cross curricular learning opportunities and responding to the needs of the children as and when they arise. The anticipated coverage over the school year can be viewed in the Appendix.

During the first term of the roll out of the RSE Policy parents will have the opportunity to view a sample of the resources which will be used across the school. These will reflect the Jigsaw scheme and the latest Hwb resources.

We aim to provide a learning atmosphere where children feel safe and relaxed, and where they feel confident to engage in discussions around potentially sensitive subjects and themes. Ground rules in class and across the school are essential when discussing sensitive subject matter and teaching RSE. Clear ground rules are established in partnership with the class, then reinforced at the start of each relevant lesson.

As a minimum, ground rules are likely to include the following basic guidelines:

- Listen politely to each other
- Everyone gets a turn to speak, if they want to
- Everyone has a right not to speak
- Everyone's contribution is respected
- We don't ask or have to answer any personal questions
- We use anatomically correct language when we have learnt it

Pupils' questions will be dealt with honestly and sensitively and in an age-appropriate way. In Progression Step 3 classes a question box will be available for pupils to ask anonymous questions. If staff are faced with a question, they do not feel comfortable answering within the classroom, techniques such as distancing, the use of a question box, or creating a time to talk to a child individually will be used. Children may also be signposted back to parents/carers and the teacher will contact the parents/carers to give a context to the conversations that have been held in class. If needed, the school can provide additional support links to external agencies or resources that can better support pupils and their families.

The monitoring and evaluation of delivery of RSE within our school is overseen by the Health and Well-being Lead. This person will be a first point of contact regarding any issues with curriculum or wider issues that may arise relating to the area of RSE. Monitoring is carried out on an annual basis, in line with the schools, wider MER timetable of activities and Governing Body Curriculum evaluation.

If any questions raise safeguarding concerns, teachers will refer to the Designated Safeguarding Lead and record on MyConcern. (MyConcern – Safeguarding reporting platform)

Since RSE incorporates the development of self-esteem and relationships, pupils' learning does not just take place through the taught curriculum but through all aspects of school life, including the playground. It is important then, that all staff understand they have a responsibility to implement this policy and promote the aims of the school at any time they are dealing with children.

Counselling and Support

Family help advisors – 0300 013 3133

Other external agencies – Social services offer an array of support packages ranging from Family Support, Children in Need to Child Protection.

External agencies, including health, can also enrich the area of RSE and ensure that pupils receive a balanced and well supported experience of RSE at our school. Health professionals and specialist external agencies who are involved with our school will enhance the RSE programme.

As part of our teaching children will also be made aware of support groups they can access via telephone / internet. Additional support for families can also be found on the school Reception area.

Confidentiality

Teachers conduct RSE lessons (or lessons that incorporate RSE principles) in a sensitive manner. However, if a child makes a reference to being involved, or likely to be involved in sexual activity, then the teacher will take the matter seriously and deal with it as outlined in the Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy. Teachers will respond in a similar way if a child indicates that they may have been a victim of abuse or exploitation. If the teacher has concerns, they will draw these to the attention of the designated person responsible for child protection as a matter of urgency. Disclosure of female genital mutilation must be reported to the police. (Either by the teacher to whom it is disclosed or by the Designated Safeguarding Lead)

Legally, the school cannot offer or guarantee absolute confidentiality. We aim to ensure that pupils best interests are maintained and try to encourage pupils to talk to their parents or carers to provide support. If confidentiality has to be broken, pupils are informed first and then supported by the designated teacher throughout the whole process.

Equalities and diversity

Schools, like all public institutions, have specific responsibilities in relation to equality and protected characteristics. Planning and resources are reviewed to ensure they comply with equalities legislation and the school's Equal Opportunities Policy. All RSE is taught without bias and in line with legal responsibilities such as those contained within the Equality Act 2010. Topics are presented using a variety of views and beliefs so that pupils are able to form their own, informed opinions, but also respect others that may have different opinions.

The personal beliefs and attitudes of staff delivering RSE will not influence the teaching of the subject in school. In our school we seek to recognise and embrace the diverse nature of our community. We aim to value and celebrate religious, ethnic and cultural diversity as part of modern Britain. We will explore diverse cultural beliefs and values and encourage activities that challenge stereotypes and discrimination, and present children with accurate information based on the law. We will use a range of Welsh Government approved resources that reflect the diverse views of our community and encourage a sense of acceptance.

Monitoring and review

The delivery of RSE is monitored by the senior leadership team through, for example, planning scrutinies, learning walks and lesson observations. Pupils' development in RSE is monitored by class teachers as part of our internal assessment systems.

RSE will be monitored and evaluated, in line with all AOLE areas within the school, as part of our annual Monitoring Evaluation Reporting cycle. This policy will be reviewed on a 2 year cycle and approved by the governing body in line with statutory guidance.

Appendix 1 – Content of RSE in Ton Yr Ywen

Our curriculum for RSE develops progressively as pupils move from Progression Step 1 to Progression Step 3. Our aim is to promote and deliver an RSE curriculum that is developmentally appropriate to the pupils within the class. The table below highlights the concepts and topics that are covered within the various year groups across the school;

Year Group	Topics Covered – Note: The following is a guide. The curriculum offered will be in line with the needs of and the developmental level of the pupils in each class and therefore may be adapted. As part of the handover between teachers each year the teacher will highlight what has been covered to date, in order to plan for next steps in learning.
Nursery and Reception	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Their own self-identity, including goals and dreams, and an early understanding of their rights and responsibilities. • Understanding feelings, including those of others. • Being part of a community, including the class community and the area they live in, celebrating the diversity that is found there. • Relationships - including families and friends and dealing with bullying; and the importance of personal safety. • Importance of keeping a healthy body and the importance that healthy food, sleep and exercise can have on maintaining a healthy lifestyle. • Growing and changing and how this affects them at a personal level.
